NATION'S EYES UPON ELECTION IN CALIFORNIA

G. O. P. Agreed on Hoover;
Will Serve As Endorsement

NATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE

Democratic Issue in Western State is Open and Clear

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1—(INS)—The eyes of the nation were on California today as her citizens trooped to the polls to record their preference for President.

The Republicans are agreed on Herbert Hoover, but today's primary vote will serve as an official endorsement of the delegation pledged to support him at Kansas City.

It is within the Democratic ranks that the Primary assumes national significance. California democracy is divided among three leading candidates for the nomination. The winner, political observers believe will be a good bet at Houston.

The Democratic issue in California is open and clear cut. It is perhaps the only one in the United States which is sharply defined upon the rival claims of Governor Alfred E. Smith, of New York, Senator James A. Reed, of Missouri, and Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, for convention support.

Each of these candidates for the Presidential nomination have a specifically pledged delegation in this primary battle from which the party will choose.

Leading the Smith contingent is former United States Senator James D. Phelan. Opposed to Phelan is William Gibbs McAdoo, leader of the Senator Walsh faction. Oddly enough, Phelan is the man who placed McAdoo in nomination four years ago in New York against Governor Smith.

The McAdoo-Walsh combine represents the "dry" wing of California democracy. Should they win, it is admitted they will form a nucleus around which the "drys" will rally at Houston in an effort to defeat New York's popular governor.

But also very much in the fight is Senator Reed, the fiery Missourian. He filed here some time ago on the western tour and a fairly effective organization has been built up in the northern and southern ends of the state.

Helen Allen Entertains On Her 10th Birthday

Helen Allen, daughter of Mrs. Eva Allen, of New Buckley street, celebrated her tenth birthday anniversary Saturday evening from 7 to 9 o'clock by entertaining a number of her friends.

A most delightful evening was spent playing various games, and prizes were awarded for a few of them.

Janice Muffet received first prize for pinning the tail on the donkey, while Pearl Smith received the "booby" prize. Alta Gosline received a prize for the candy hunt. The next game, counting the beans in the jar, made a lot of fun for everybody, and Irvin Hetherington was awarded the prize.

Refreshments were served in the dining room, which was prettily decorated with pink crepe paper. Each guest received a little pink basket filled with candy and a balloon. The birthday cake containing ten candles formed the center-piece on the table.

The children then departed for their homes, after having a wonderful time.

Those present were: Marjory Clements, Janice Muffet, Ella May Smith, Pearl Smith, Jennie Lamb, Alta Gosline, Doris Hendricks, Ruth Weik, Thelma Weik, Viola Mount, Nellie Green, Stella Mount, Irvina Coyle, Dorothy Magill, Elizabeth Mayberry, Vera Malcom, Helen Allen, Margaret Allen, Buddy Magill, Leonard McGee, James Swank, Thomas Swank, Irvin Hetherington, Eugene Mount, Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Mount, Miss Stella Mount, Mrs. Eva Allen, Mr. Reuben Mount.

Helen received a number of beautiful gifts.

KOEHL MAKES TRIPS IN MONOPLANE F-13

Hops from Bed at Early Hour
For A Trip in The Air

MARVELOUS RECEPTION

By James L. Kilgallen

NEW YORK, May 1—Captain Herman Koehl, pilot of the trans-Atlantic monoplane Bremen, slipped out of bed at an unearthly hour this morning, dashed out to the Curtiss Flying Field and enjoyed himself immensely by making four short flights in the Junkers monoplane F-13, sister ship of the Bremen.

The trip was entirely unexpected, and not on the program. The genial captain's companions, Baron Gunther Von Huenefeld and Major James Fitzmaurice were sleeping soundly at the time, recuperating from the effects of their strenuous day yesterday when 2,000,000 New Yorkers turned out to acclaim them. None of the flyers got to bed until after midnight.

NEW YORK, May 1—Tired out by the great reception given them by the admiring millions of New York City, Baron Gunther VonHuenefeld, Captain Herman Koehl and Major James Fitzmaurice, slept soundly early today in the Ritz-Carlton. They had retired late last night, fatigued but happy after one of the wildest celebrations of welcome ever accorded heroes by New York.

A New Health Campaign For Borough of Bristol

Bristol master plumbers and heating contractors are starting an intensive advertising drive and a co-operating campaign with civic organizations and women's clubs to carry out locally the national movement of the Plumbing and Heating Industries Bureau to "Make a Health Examination of Your Home."

This movement, which joins the efforts of the medical profession to combat diseases and their causes, was begun this week with national advertising. Large reproductions of the first advertisements are being displayed in the windows of Heating Contractors and Master Plumbers here.

Leading local heating contractors and master plumbers point out that serious bacterial infections often have their beginning in insanitary plumbing equipment, while colds and pulmonary disturbances usually are traceable to inefficient heating methods within the homes.

Regular check-up and examination services will be rendered to Bristol residents by plumbers and heating contractors. Frequently they will be able to make suggestions that will lead not only to health conservation, but also to actual savings in money.

Asks for Names of All Crippled Kiddies Here

Dr. J. Fred Wagner, chairman of the crippled kiddies' committee of the Boys' Week celebration, requests that names of crippled children for whom transportation should be furnished for Saturday's festivities, be handed to him.

Crippled kiddies who have but recently made Bristol their home are urged to send in their names, in order that they might participate.

ENTER HOBBY FAIR TODAY; MIB GAMES ON

First Ward Elimination Contests to Be Played Here
This Afternoon

BALL GAMES PLAYED

By James L. Kilgallen

This is the day on which the boys are to enter the exhibits which they make in the Boys' Week Hobby Fair. A member of the Hobby Fair Committee will be at the Community House, Derrance and Cedar streets, between the hours of 3 and 5 this afternoon and again this evening from 7 to 9 to receive the entries.

This is the first year for a Hobby Fair to be held here and to what extent entries will be made is not known. Several boys have stated that they are prepared to exhibit their handiwork but just how many is not known at this time.

This afternoon the ward eliminations in the marble contests are to be played on the Leedom field at 4 o'clock. Closely contested events are looked for. The court is said to be in very good condition and unless rain interferes the games will start at 4 o'clock.

The semi-finals in the baseball series were played yesterday, and the teams representing the Fourth Ward and the First Ward came off the victors. The Fourth Ward boys defeated the Sixth Ward boys by the score of 9 to 2, and First Ward took the game from Crofton by the score of 8 to 6.

The final game is scheduled for Wednesday afternoon at 5 o'clock on the Leedom field, when the Fourth Ward will battle with the First Ward. Tomorrow afternoon will be the opening of the Hobby Fair in the Community House at 3 o'clock. The public is invited to attend.

Sunday School Class Plans Tour of New York

Class No. 11 of the Methodist Episcopal Church, taught by Mrs. George W. Miller, of Mulberry street, held the regular monthly meeting at the home of Miss Dorothy Jackson, of 213 Wood street, on Thursday evening.

The general routine of business was transacted, at which time plans were perfected for a sightseeing trip to New York City by bus on May 23rd. There is already one bus filled and a portion of the second bus, and the extra seats can be arranged for. For space on this trip apply to Mrs. George W. Miller, 117 Mulberry street, before May 10th.

Also, Mrs. Miller requests that a correction be made in the announcement that she had donated twenty yards of outing flannel to the Needlework Guild. This donation was from Mrs. Miller's Sunday School class, instead of an individual gift.

At the end of the business meeting the class adjourned to the dining room where a bountiful repast was served.

Langhorne Scouts To Attend Camp at Gettysburg

Eight scouts of Troop No. 1, of Langhorne, Joseph W. Lindenfelser, Jr., scoutmaster, are excited over the thought of representing the Bucks County Council at the eastern section of the third region camping contest to be held at Gettysburg the 29th and 30th of June. The scouts of Langhorne No. 1 earned this opportunity through their troop having won the Bucks County Council scout troop championship at Perkassie on Saturday, April 21st. The program of the council calls for a camping contest in the spring, and the annual troop championship contest in the fall.

A number of the thirty troops of the council attended church in a body last Sunday in conjunction with the Boys' Week activities in most all of the communities of the county. It is the plan from now on to make this first Sunday of Boys' Week an annual Scout Church Day.

NUMEROUS CASES ARE HEARD BY JUDGE W. C. RYAN

Chicken Thievery and Moonshine Making Are Chief Causes of Offense

SENTENCES ARE GIVEN

Judge Reprimands Offenders Before Sentencing Them

DOYLESTOWN, May 1—"Chicken thievery is entirely too extensive in Bucks county," declared Judge William C. Ryan yesterday as he sentenced Matthew Cheves, colored, of Taylorsville, to serve not less than one or more than two years in the Bucks County Prison.

Cheves pleaded guilty to the theft of sixteen chickens from the henry of Edwin Johnson, Upper Makefield township, on the night of April 4. Corporal Pickering, of the Edison substation of State Police, who assisted in the arrest of the defendant, said that Cheves admitted when arrested that he had stolen chickens from other places in Bucks county but could not remember the locations.

James P. Dyer, of Buckingham, a farm hand, pleaded guilty to operating his automobile while drunk on the state highway at Edison on April 10. He was arrested by Patrolman J. T. Budhas. Dyer told the Court that he had been drinking hard cider. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs. His employer testified that Dyer was the best farm hand that ever worked for him.

Kalman Reineck, 17, of near Passer, pleaded guilty to fraudulently uttering a worthless check for $47.75 on April 8, this year. He was sentenced to the Huntingdon Reformatory. Court records show that Reineck served time in the county prison at Easton, being discharged from that institution last December.

Raymond Hillegass, 24, of Quakertown, was before Judge Ryan yesterday in an automobile violation case that dated back to last September when he was arrested on the Bethlehem pike by Constable Stotz, of Perkassie, charged with reckless driving and failure to stop when signaled to do so by an officer. Hillegass waived a hearing at the time of his arrest. After hearing testimony yesterday, Judge Ryan fined Hillegass $10 and costs for reckless driving.

Constable Stotz testified that when he finally stopped Hillegass after chasing him some distance, that Hillegass told him that "I will get you yet." Herman Richardson, of Bristol, charged with desertion and non-support of a child, was directed yesterday to pay $4 a week support order. The order was reached by agreement on both sides and no testimony was offered.

Through his attorney, Eggle Segelski, of Ottsville, formerly employed in a Doylestown garage, made application for a parole yesterday. On February 7, Segelski was sentenced to pay a fine of $1 and costs and serve not less than three or more than six years in the Bucks County Prison.

Judge Ryan stated that the parole would be granted next Monday upon the expiration of the minimum sentence time. The defendant was sentenced on a charge of fraudulent conversion of property.

John Stackhouse, 31, of Black Run road, Lower Makefield township, pleaded guilty yesterday to manufacturing and possessing intoxicating liquor on his 90-acre farm. He is the son of a well known resident of Bucks county. Judge Ryan sentenced him to pay a fine of $500 and costs and serve four months in the Bucks County Prison.

"It is difficult to understand how a young man of your connection would get into trouble like this," said Judge Ryan. "I suppose you were lured into the game by easy money. I am not sure that you told the entire truth on the witness stand."

May Dance and Play Will Attract Many to St. Mark's

Friday evening, May 4th, the seniors of St. Mark's will hold their May Dance. The dance will be preceded by a one-act play, "Trying Them Out." The story of the play is as follows:

Mr. Brown (Hubert McGinley), manager of a woolen firm, advises for an expert stenographer. The first applicant is an old maid (Catharine Oliver) who informs Mr. Brown just what she will and will not do. Mr. Brown meekly says that he doesn't believe he will suit her. Mrs. Mary Due (Mary Nealls) a widow, applies, but her English and spelling are so bad that she is dismissed. Miss Covington (Gertrude McGee) who tells all about her family tree, arrives next but does not get the position. Miss Hall (Elveda Moffo) a good stenographer, applies and shows how to be business like. Under her influence even the office boy (George Dougherty) changes his habits. The purpose of this play is educational as well as amusing. A number of points on business ethics are brought out.

Those in charge hope their friends will encourage them in this, their first attempt at dramatics, by their presence on Friday evening.

Tickets for this affair may be secured from members of the commercial class.

YOUTH WHO CALLED THE FIREMEN FREED BY COURT

Johnny Kronberg, 7, Sent in False Fire Alarm Here,
March 27th

CAUTIONED BY JUDGE

Johnny Kronberg, aged 7, of Bristol, on the afternoon of March 27, sent in a false fire alarm to the Bristol Fire Department. He was arrested and yesterday was given a hearing in juvenile court at Doylestown before Judge William C. Ryan.

Little Johnny told the Judge that he and two other fellows started a grass fire and that he thought it would spread to a garage where his "dad" kept his automobile, and that is why he sent in the alarm, but the fire was extinguished before the company arrived.

Judge Ryan discharged the youth and placed the costs on the county, saying that it was right in apprehending the boy, for the alarm should not have been sent in, and such practice should be broken up, but that the little boy, in his own mind, probably did think the emergency was great enough to send in an alarm.

Sodality Sponsors Card Party Tonight

The card party which will be given in St. Mark's Hall this evening is sponsored by the Sodality of St. Mark's Church.

Table assignments will be made at 8.30 o'clock, and a fine array of prizes has been secured. Those who are members of the prize committee are: Mrs. John Goslin, Miss Jane Lynn, Miss Bessie Rafferty.

Refreshments will likewise be served tonight.

Will Collect Garments For Needlework Guild

BENSALEM YOUTH MARBLE KING OF DISTRICT NO. 5

Edward Tomlinson Defeats
Bristol Boy for The Honors

KEEN COMPETITION

Tullytown Player Gives Battle
Before Losing His Contest

Edward Tomlinson, Bensalem Township and a student at the public school of that district was crowned marble champion of District No. 5 yesterday when he defeated all competitors in the Bucks County Marble tournament. Tomlinson will receive a gold medal, which is now on display in the window of Fabian's Pharmacy, Radcliffe and Mulberry streets.

Charles Fallon, of Bristol, a pupil at St. Mark's Parochial School, was the runner-up in the tournament, and he played against Tomlinson.

Fallon first played William Grotz, of Edgely, and won the series. Then Frank Rousseau, of Tullytown, and Daniel Dugan, of Bristol, battled in the ring. Rousseau won the contest and then he played Fallon and was defeated.

Fallon and Tomlinson then went to it and the Bristol youth lost. The games were played here yesterday at 2 o'clock and created much interest.

District marble champions were crowned yesterday in five of the eight districts in Bucks county. The best mib shots from various schools in the county competed in district elimination shoots at Doylestown, Sellersville, Perkassie, Quakertown, Bristol, Newtown and Morrisville. New Hope, Newtown and Perkassie will conduct their district shoots this afternoon.

Tomorrow afternoon, winners of the district championship matches at Doylestown, Sellersville, Perkassie and Quakertown, will contest in Doylestown on Burpee Memorial Playground to pick the two best shooters. On Thursday afternoon, winners of the districts of Bristol, Newtown, New Hope and Morrisville will play at Newtown to pick the two best shooters. The four thus selected will meet at Doylestown next Saturday morning at 10 o'clock to shoot for the county championship.

The Doylestown district elimination yesterday resulted in a victory for Martin Rezer, aged 14, a seventh grade student in the Chalfont Borough schools who was crowned the champion of the Doylestown district. Rezer defeated Harold Miese, of New Britain township, a student in the P. O. S. of A. school at Chalfont.

Miese won the first game, 7 to 6, and Rezer took the second game in quick order when he knocked Miese's shooter out of the ring. Fate played against young Miese in the third and final game. After Miese had knocked out ten marbles and Rezer had but two, Miese's shooter stayed in the ring in one of his shots and Rezer knocked it out to take the game.

Doylestown District Chairman N. F. Power presented the new district champion, Martin Rezer, with a gold medal and urged all marble shooters in the district to turn out and root for the Doylestown district champion next Wednesday afternoon when the two best shooters from the upper-end districts will be selected.

The results of Doylestown district games yesterday were as follows:

First Round: Lawrence Clark, Plumstead township, defeated James Hayes, Tinticum; Joseph Bragg, St. Joseph's Parochial School, Hallowell, defeated Richard Morgan, Warrington; Harold Miese, New Britain township, defeated Phillip Pierce, Doylestown township; Bartolan Petkun, Dublin, defeated Herbert Hill, Wycombe; Billy Power, Doylestown, defeated Harold Yoder, Tinticum; Martin Rezer, Chalfont, defeated John Luddy, Warwick; Howard James, Buckingham, won by default.

Second Round: Joseph Bragg, St. Joseph's Parochial School, defeated Lawrence Clark, Plumstead township; Harold Miese, New Britain township, defeated Bartolan Petkun, Dublin; Martin Rezer, Chalfont, defeated Billy Power, Doylestown; Howard James, Buckingham (bye).

Semi-Final Round: Harold Miese, New Britain, defeated Joseph Bragg, St. Joseph's Parochial School; Martin Rezer, Chalfont, defeated Howard James, Buckingham.

Tomorrow at four o'clock the Junior Auxiliary of the Bristol Branch of the Needlework Guild will conduct its regular monthly business meeting at the home of Mrs. Minot J. Hill, Radcliffe street. A good attendance is desired.

THE MENACE OF SMOKE

To tackle the smoke nuisance calls for something approaching consummate optimism. It is done so often without tangible results that new attempts are apt to be viewed with a great deal of skepticism. But there the nuisance is a challenge to the nation's professed desire for cleanliness and health and its dislike for waste and inefficiency. Unless, therefore, the public is willing to concede that conditions are never to be improved, it must view with approval every sensible effort to abate the clouds of smoke which, like a fog, at times cover whole communities.

Physicians say the smoky carbon in the air we breathe aggravates lung and bronchial diseases and that the exclusion of the violet rays of the sun is detrimental to health. Scientists have shown that incomplete combustion of coal means enormous waste, and economists say it is responsible for great damage to merchandise, household goods and public and private buildings. Of course, there is no need to prove to anyone that clean, pure air is always preferable to dirty, foul air.

The reasons why there should be agitation for abatement of smoke are manifest. Why greater progress is not made in the matter is another story. Perfunctory passing of ordinances will do little or no good. It is necessary to secure cooperation of those specially affected by smoke control. The first cost of smoke control is the only cost. But it is because of this first cost that most communities still tolerate the smoke nuisance.

DEADLY MOTOR DRIVERS

There are pistols and knives and hatchets and blackjacks in the list of deadly weapons, and, when careless hands are on the wheel and reckless drivers are behind them, automobiles are to be included. If you doubt this, read the ever-lengthening list of traffic fatalities.

A man does not have to be deliberate in his intent to kill to be a morally responsible slayer. He is one if he kills while acting in reckless disregard of others. The motorist who drives his car at break-neck speed through the streets and goes hurtling down the path that others cross employs a deadly weapon against his fellows as surely as one who empties his gun down a crowded thoroughfare.

Let the reckless motorist fix this in his mind and, if he is not a murderer at heart, let him prove it by exercising proper care. Good drivers are those who get not the highest but the safest speed out of their cars.

Another figure worth improving is a bank balance.

Opportunity knocks but temptation kicks the door in.

They used to hide their rouge, now they rouge their hide.

Adam was the first and only man to fall for "the only girl in the world."

The only time some dancers are light on their feet is when they sit down.

A New York preacher looks to youth to produce the superman and youth will readily admit its ability to do it.

Psychologists claim to be able to tell what children possess exceptional ability, but then parents have always been able to do that.

"THE JAZZ SINGER," starring Al Jolson, is a Warner Bros. picture-ization of this novel. It is based upon the play by Samson Raphaelson.

SYNOPSIS

Jakie, son of Cantor Rabinowitz, preferring jazz to synagogue music, leaves home. Ten years elapse. Through Mary Dale, a dancer, Jakie, now Jack Robin, becomes a jazz singer. The Cantor, discovering his son's profession, disowns him. Jack's shoe opens the Eve of Yom Kippur. Dillings, the baker of the show, withdraws his money, leaving Lee, the producer, dependent on Jack for success. The Cantor is ill. Mrs. Rabinowitz comes to dress rehearsal to beg her son to sing in the synagogue. Unable to withstand her pleadings Jack returns home. Mary and Lee follow him to dissuade him. But as Jack sings in the temple the Cantor dies.

"If you think that boy's going to be a Cantor all his life you're very much mistaken," Mary answered vehemently. "He'll never stay down here. The trouble now is that he's under a very heavy mental strain. He can't see things clearly. Wait until he comes to his senses. I don't agree with you," Lee sighed. "His career on the stage is ended. He'll never come back. This one incident is going to remain in his mind, and all his life will be one long Day of Atonement. This is in his blood—all this. He won't be able to get away from it."

"Yes, he will," Mary argued. "I'm going to see that he does. Give him another chance. He's a great actor and a great singer."

"Root for me, Mary, like you always do."

He's worth while. If I can get him to come back, will you reconsider about sending for Valentine?" "Oh, I don't know," Lee was weary and tired. He got up and walked about the room. He looked at his watch. "Good Lord, it's almost eight o'clock. Look here. We're opening tonight. We've got to get up to the theatre. You're not dressed or anything. Thank God you don't go on right away. This is a hell of a way to open a show. The star and the producer sitting down on the East Side until it's almost time for the curtain to ring up. Come on. Get your things. We've got to beat it."

"Wait!" She caught hold of Lee and listened.

"What's the matter?" "They're praying. I want you to listen." The pair moved over to the window.

Black against the softly tinted, autumnal sky the high tenement buildings reared their heads. Little blotches of light spilt from hundreds of windows and lay softly on the gleaming. The street noises were very faint, now. There were few pedestrians on the streets. Only the trolley cars and the trucks broke the Sabbath stillness that hung over the city. All the ghetto was at Synagogue. Sid until Clear and deep the voice of Jakie Rabinowitz came to them. They stared at each other amazed. Here was the same quality that had been in the voice of Jack Robin that afternoon when he cried his "mammy" song in the theatre. It was the same voice, the same wailing sound, the same rhythm, the same catch in the throat. Mary turned to Lee.

"You are listening to a blackface comedian singing to his God," Mary spoke in awed, hushed tones. "Don't you see, Harry, this isn't so far from Broadway? It's all in his blood, really. Can't you feel the same quality here that you felt this afternoon when he sang? Why he'll have to come back."

"I hope so."

They stood there listening, fasinated. Finally Lee turned. "Come on! We've got to get out of here and uptown." He took Mary's arm, and the two went, closing the door silently behind them.

The multi-colored lights on the Great White Way winked and blinked on the frosty air. Theatres blazoned their wares with vivid brightness of electricity and colored posters. Crowds hastened up and down Broadway—women in gleaming evening dress; men in formal black and white. Taxis honked and hooted their way through the maze of pedestrians.

A steady stream of cabs drew up before the Winter Garden Theatre. They deposited their charges on the wide threshold of the vast pile of stone dedicated to the gaiety of all peoples. The theatre-goers in search of an evening of pleasure thronged the lobby and the foyer. Many of them stopped before the large easels filled with photographs. On one side reposed a full length portrait of Mary Dale in ballet costume. Opposite it a portrait of a blackface comedian with the gilt inscription, "Jack Robin."

For a month, now, the "April Fooler" had been listed as one of the theatrical successes of the season. But tonight for the first time this portrait of the "jazz" singer decorated the lobby. The press had accepted the announcement made on the opening night of the illness of the comedian with some comment. Whispers as to the real reason for his failure to appear went the rounds, but never gossip had soiled the poignancy of the story. Now, however, with his New York debut at hand a stir of excitement once more rippled along Broadway, and the theatre was crowded with the usual group of first-nighters waiting to pass judgment on this recent discovery of Harry Lee's.

Back stage the usual activities were taking place. The noise of shifting scenery, of mechanics and electricians, battled with the chatter of the chorus girls lined up for the opening number. With regular precision the houselights went down and the curtain came up. The audience chattered vaguely for a moment and then settled into silence.

In the wings stood the blackface comedian awaiting his cue. Beside him stood the golden-haired ballet dancer all set to go on. They looked at each other and smiled. The blackface comedian pressed the ballet dancer's hand.

"Is there anything I can do for you, Jack?" the ballet dancer asked the blackface comedian.

"Yes, just root for me like you always do, Mary," the blackface comedian laughed nervously and squeezed the ballet dancer's hand. "Ouch," the ballet dancer laughed, too. "That ring hurts—I'm not used to it." They both looked down at the gleaming diamond that glistened on the third finger of the ballet dancer's left hand. "There! your cue. I'll watch from here."

The ballet dancer shoved the black face comedian out onto the stage.

He fell into his shambling, vociferous. The orchestra ramped up the verse of the song. Then he ran into the chorus.

"And I want you all to know... I want to go... Back to my mammy... I'm through wanderin'—up and down... I'm goin' to strike—home—town... Where the folks'll gather—round... An' greet me... I want to go... Back to my mammy..."

The house looked black and dark from behind the footlights. There was only one person Jack could see. Up in the box sat Mrs. Rabinowitz in heavy, black silk. A light came across the footlights. The blackface comedian's mother wiped a tear from her eye and smiled. The audience then derided its applause. Again and again Jack took his bows. But all he saw was the figure in the box. He waved and blew a kiss. Mrs. Rabinowitz looked about her proudly. That was her son Jakie. She turned to Judelson, sitting there beside her, and smiled.

Jack ran on at last. There in the wings stood Mary, waiting. Her eyes were bright, and very, very big and blue. Her nose with that delicious little tip-tilt looked adorable with its sensitive contours had never seemed so delectable. They turned and strolled, hand in hand, to the dressing rooms.

THE END.

Numerous Cases Heard By Judge W. C. Ryan

Constable Watson and Officer Andrew Thompson, of Morrisville, on March 16, when three stills were found in operation and six barrels of apple whiskey seized. The defendant denied that he ever sold any whiskey but said that he had a lot of cider on hand that could not be sold and that he decided to make apple whiskey out of it, for his own family use.

Constable Watson said that it was a matter of common talk in the vicinity that "whiskey could be purchased at the Stackhouse place."

Several drunken drivers were before the Court yesterday. Clarence Coffman, of Roslyn, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to pay $200 fine and costs. He was arrested in the Street road on March 25 by the State Highway Patrol. Albert Ellis, of Frenchtown, N. J., was also fined $200 and costs for driving while drunk along the River road near Point Pleasant on April 15. Robert Orndorf, of 1908 North 23d street, Philadelphia, pleaded guilty to driving while drunk on the Lincoln highway at Oxford Valley on April 21. He was fined $200 and costs.

Joseph Rubino, proprietor of a small store and restaurant at South Langhorne, pleaded guilty to the possession of intoxicating liquor at his place. He was fined $100 and costs and sentenced to serve two months in the Bucks County Prison. Rubino was arrested on March 23 by State Highway Patrol officers stationed at Langhorne. They found three barrels of wine and three quarts of moonshine whiskey. Rubino told the Court that the wine was for his own use and that the whiskey was prescribed for him by a doctor, for "kidney trouble."

Judge Ryan yesterday placed Mrs. Kate Ostpehuck, of Morrisville, on probation for a period of one year. She pleaded guilty to possessing and manufacturing liquor in her own home. She said that her husband died last December leaving her with three small children and no means of support. She admitted that she sold some whiskey and made some.

calls to your out-of-town friends, even though they live as far as forty or fifty miles away, are handled by your local operator.

She takes charge of your call and sees it through. You don't even hang up your receiver.

Your out-of-town friends can be reached as easily and conveniently as your "in-town" friends.
